

Spring Visit to Sandwich and Deal

Saturday 12 May 2018

We travel via St Pancras taking the Javelin High Speed Train.
Fare includes high speed supplement.

Sandwich was once (incredibly) the foremost port in England and one of the original Cinque Ports. Now it is two miles from the sea on the River Stour. It's a small town full of old timber-framed buildings with three notable churches. The Fisher Gate (1384) is impressive as is The Barbican (Tudor). There will be time to stroll around and to take refreshment and even lunch.

In the afternoon we hop over to Deal (5 mins on train) which is indeed by the sea and can be very bracing. The station is central, minutes from local shops, Georgian and Victorian side streets and seafront.

There is a modern (1957) 1,000ft pier – a good place for tea, viewing the coastline and breathing in the ozone.

You will be guided to/from each destination and be able to walk around at leisure. There are some Town Trails.
